

DO YOU TRUST YOUR BOAT'S DRIPLESS SHAFT SEAL?

STUBBY PRO

Self-aligning Shaft Seals

- No bellows to rip or lose compression
- No set screws to cut into the shaft
- No lip seals to tear
- No carbon stator to crack
- No stainless rotor to slip
- No flimsy hose barb to snap off
- No drips required to keep packing cool

R.E. Thomas Marine Hardware's Stubby Pro self-aligning shaft seals offer boaters a trustworthy, heavy-duty alternative to so-called "dripless" mechanical face seals and lip seals.

Inspired by the success of our original SA Series shaft seals in the commercial fishing fleets of New England, Stubby Pro shaft seals offer the same benefits in a compact profile that fit most stern tube configurations.

Stubby Pro shaft seals are designed to be low maintenance, with limited failure points, while maximizing performance and safety. If you've been boating long enough, you've either experienced a failure of a "packless" shaft seal or know someone who has.

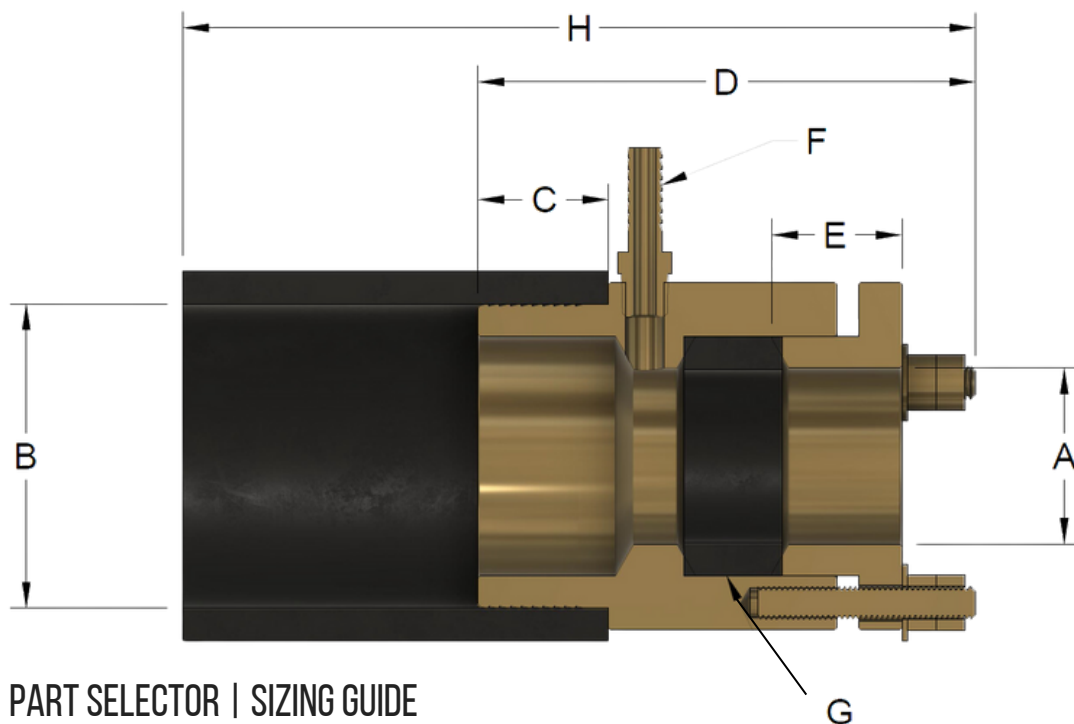

Experience the difference and find out why many of the world's finest boat builders, service yards, and marine mechanics trust RE Thomas's shaft seals. Stop worrying about your dripless shaft seal and get the peace of mind you deserve.

SELF-ALIGNING SHAFT SEALS | FOR BOATS WITH SHAFT TUBES

The Stubby Pro is a modern take on a traditional self-aligning shaft seal designed to take advantage of technical advancements in packing material technology. The added water feed allows the packing to remain cool without dripping, keeping your bilge dry and your mind at ease.
